

Interim Ordinance No. 1408

Authorizing a Study and Imposing a
Moratorium Sale of Cannabinoid
Products

Background

The legalization of cannabinoid products has significant support in the Legislature

- Current versions of the House and Senate bills do not allow for local regulation or control

Over 100 cannabinoid products already exist, with more currently in development

- Some cannabinoids have an intoxicating effect, while others do not
- Intoxicating cannabinoid products may contain THC or other chemical compounds

Cannabidiol (CBD) Considerations

Cannabidiol (CBD) is a non-intoxicating cannabinoid that contains trace amounts of THC

A product is considered to have no more than a trace amount of THC if:

- The manufacturer is not required by any State or Federal law to identify the amount of any THC on the product label, or
- The product label indicates the product contains less than 0.1 milligrams of any THC

CBD is currently legal under state and federal law
